

9 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Her opposition to arms trading with SA unfortunately put her in danger.</li> <li>● On 29 March 1988, anti-apartheid activist Dulcie September was assassinated in the middle of Paris in case still unsolved, representing dark truth of Western countries' hidden support of apartheid regime (Dulcie Evonne September).</li> <li>● September shot several times in head outside of ANC office of Paris in the morning (Cortana).</li> <li>● Despite clear assassination, French justice lagged in detective work– decided to close the file on her assassination in 1992 (Cortana, 2023)</li> </ul>	10 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● It was as if goal was to erase great historical figure from the books by murdering her and then silencing the pursuit of justice.</li> <li>● Why I wanted to tell you about her today, to deny them the possibility of silencing great figure who might've still been alive today if not for them.</li> <li>● So today, I've told you about the life, accomplishments, and death of Dulcie September, who was an extremely important figure to the anti-apartheid movement.</li> </ul>
11 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● While apartheid regime may think it won against her, she outlived it, as over 20,000 people protested against her death in Paris and Nelson Mandela visited her and paid her tribute in France after he was elected president of South Africa– a striking and final defeat to apartheid.</li> </ul>	12 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>●</li> </ul>